2026 MWRD:

Respect, Civility & Inclusion Training

PARTICIPANT GUIDE

Employee Edition | 2026

This training is designed to help employees understand their role in creating a respectful, civil, and inclusive workplace. During this session, we will discuss workplace expectations, appropriate conduct, employee responsibilities, and what to do if you experience or witness behavior that does not align with District policy.

This guide is your companion for today's training. Keep it — the policy references, reporting numbers, and reflection prompts inside are tools you can return to at any time.

Welcome & How to Use This Guide

This Participant Guide is organized by module and follows the sequence of today's session. Use it to take notes, complete activities, and capture key information you want to remember.

Training Overview
Duration	Approximately 2 hours
Format	Instructor-Led Training (ILT) with group activities and role play
Audience	All MWRD Employees
Policies Covered	AP 10.5.0 AP 10.11.0 AP 10.15.0 AP 10.27.0 AP 10.44.0
HR Contact	Employee Relations — 312-751-4443
OIG Contact	Office of Inspector General — 312-751-4444

Learning Objectives

By the end of this training, you will be able to:

- Recognize behaviors that constitute harassment, discrimination, and retaliation under MWRD policy.
- Distinguish between conduct that is uncivil, inappropriate, and unlawful.
- Understand the intent vs. impact standard and how it applies to workplace conduct.
- Apply MWRD's Social Media Policy (AP 10.44.0) to on-duty and off-duty conduct.
- Identify the correct internal and external reporting channels for workplace concerns.
- Use the appropriate complaint process for different types of concerns.
- Describe the confidentiality and anti-retaliation protections available to reporters.
- Commit to at least one specific action to support a respectful, inclusive workplace.

Training Agenda

Module	Topic
Module 1	Welcome & Your Role in Workplace Culture
Module 2	Harassment, Discrimination & Retaliation
BREAK (10 minutes)
Module 3	Respectful Workplace, Civility & Inclusion
Module 4	Social Media & Inappropriate Conduct
Module 5	Reporting Concerns & Employee Responsibilities
Module 6	Capstone Scenario Lab & Reflection

MODULE 1 | Welcome & Your Role in Workplace Culture

Workplace culture is not shaped by policies alone. It is shaped by every employee, every day by how you communicate, what you allow, and how you respond when something goes wrong.

This training is a direct investment in the kind of workplace MWRD is committed to building one where every employee, regardless of role, background, or assignment, is treated with dignity and respect.

Why This Training Matters

Your Protection	Your Team	Early Intervention	Your Voice
Know your rights and how to use them.	Behavior affects everyone around you.	Small issues become big problems when ignored.	Reporting is expected — and protected.

Your Role in a Respectful Workplace

Culture is shaped by:

- How you treat people
- The words and tone you use
- What you allow to happen around you
- Your actions when something doesn't seem right
- What you report and what you don't

ACTIVITY 1 | What Does Respect Look Like? | Table Discussion

Reflect on a time you felt respected by a colleague or supervisor.

- What actions led to that feeling?
- How did it influence your work?

Now consider the opposite. What does a disrespectful workplace feel like? What is the cost?

Share your responses at your table, then be prepared to share with the group.

Notes:

MODULE 2 | Harassment, Discrimination & Retaliation

MWRD Administrative Procedure 10.5.0 defines three categories of prohibited conduct. Understanding the distinctions is essential to recognizing, responding to, and reporting inappropriate behavior.

What is Harassment? | AP 10.5.0, Section A

Harassment is any unwelcome conduct based on a legally protected characteristic that either:

- Becomes a condition of continued employment (quid pro quo), or
- Is severe or pervasive enough to create a work environment a reasonable person would find intimidating, hostile, or abusive.

Legally Protected Characteristics Under AP 10.5.0

Race, sex, gender, color, racial group or perceived racial group

Disability, age, religion, national origin or ethnicity

Sexual orientation, gender identity

Genetic information, pregnancy-related conditions

Current military status, veteran or military discharge status

Association with anyone having these characteristics

Sexual Harassment Includes:

Quid Pro Quo	Hostile Work Environment
Submission to or rejection of unwelcome sexual advances or other conduct is used as the basis for employment decisions.	Unwelcome sexual conduct is severe or pervasive enough to create a work environment that a reasonable person would find intimidating, hostile, or offensive.
Example:  A supervisor tells an employee, "If you go out with me, I'll make sure you get the overtime you want."	Example:  Repeated sexual jokes, comments about someone's body, or sharing inappropriate images that make a coworker uncomfortable.

Examples of Unwelcome Conduct

• Offensive jokes or slurs • Inappropriate comments • Unwanted touching • Displaying offensive images	• Spreading rumors • Exclusion or isolation • Verbal abuse or threats • Pressure for dates or favors	• Stalking or following • Any other conduct that creates a hostile environment
---	--	--

MODULE 2 | Harassment, Discrimination & Retaliation

What is Discrimination? | AP 10.5.0, Section B

Discrimination is any different treatment, whether less or more favorable, related to a legally protected characteristic. It includes:

- Different treatment in the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment based on a protected characteristic
- Decisions based on stereotypes or assumptions about abilities rather than demonstrated skills
- Intentional or unintentional discrimination
- Neutral job policies that disproportionately exclude individuals based on race or sex

What is Retaliation? | AP 10.5.0, Section C

Retaliation is any adverse action taken against an employee because they:

- Filed a charge of discrimination or harassment
- Complained about discrimination or harassment on the job
- Participated in an employment discrimination proceeding (investigation or lawsuit)
- Opposed discrimination in any other way

Adverse actions include: termination, refusal to hire, denial of promotion, schedule changes, exclusion from meetings, sudden negative treatment, or increased scrutiny after reporting.

Intent vs. Impact

INTENT

Invisible to others

"I didn't mean it that way" is not a defense under AP 10.5.0. Good intent may be a mitigating factor in discipline but is not a defense against a policy violation.

IMPACT

Visible — Observable — the Standard

The reasonable person standard applies: would most people find this offensive or hostile? What matters is the impact on the person experiencing the conduct.

MODULE 2 | Harassment, Discrimination & Retaliation

Employee & Supervisor Responsibilities | AP 10.5.0

Who	Responsibility
All Employees	Conduct themselves appropriately at all times. May tell another employee their behavior is unwelcome (right, not requirement). Fully cooperate in any investigation under AP 10.5.0.
Managers & Supervisors	Must immediately report to HR (312-751-4443) when they learn of any behavior that may violate this policy regardless of whether they think it is a violation, whether any employee complained, or whether an employee wants the report made.

IMPORTANT: A supervisor who knows of misconduct and facilitates, approves, condones, or turns a blind eye to it is subject to disciplinary action.

ACTIVITY 2 | Video Case Study | Watch & Discuss

Watch the video scenario carefully. After viewing, discuss with your group:

- What specific behaviors did you observe?
- What type of conduct did you witness — harassment, discrimination, retaliation, or inappropriate behavior?
- What should Carmen have done in that moment?
- If you were the coworker who witnessed the situation, what actions should you take, and how soon?

Video discussion notes:

MODULE 2 | Harassment, Discrimination & Retaliation

Module 2: Key Takeaways

1 All three categories are covered. Harassment, discrimination, and retaliation are all prohibited under AP 10.5.0.	2 Intent does not determine a violation. Impact and the reasonable person standard do. This applies equally across all three categories.	3 When in doubt, report. HR determines whether a violation occurred. Your job is to report the concern.

Notes:

MODULE 3 | Respectful Workplace, Civility & Inclusion

Most workplace problems do not begin with an obvious violation. They begin with behavior that seems minor, goes unaddressed, and escalates. Understanding where behavior falls on the spectrum and why it matters is essential.

Respect Is a Behavior, Not a Feeling

Respect is observable, measurable, and a daily choice made in every interaction.

Behaviors That BUILD

- Listening fully before responding
- Acknowledging contributions by name
- Disagreeing directly and professionally
- Following through on what you say
- Addressing behavior when it goes wrong
- Using inclusive language consistently
- Giving credit where it is due

Behaviors That ERODE

- Interrupting or talking over others
- Applying standards inconsistently
- Venting about coworkers instead of addressing directly
- Staying silent when you witness disrespect
- Making jokes at someone's expense
- Taking credit for someone else's work
- Using dismissive tone, eye rolls, or sighing

"Small things count to the person on the receiving end, when they happen consistently, and in the pattern they establish over time."

The Spectrum of Workplace Behavior

Category	Description
Appropriate	Professional conduct consistent with MWRD standards.
Inappropriate / Uncivil	Not professional, but may not rise to a policy violation. Still addressed under AP 10.27.0.
Must Be Reported	Requires immediate escalation to HR. Constitutes harassment, discrimination, or retaliation.

MODULE 3 | Respectful Workplace, Civility & Inclusion

IMPORTANT: Behavior does not have to be illegal to be unacceptable. The standard is not "did it break the law?" It is "does it reflect the values of this organization?"

Communication as a Tool for Respect

How you say something is part of what you say. Tone, timing, and medium all carry meaning — especially in digital communication, where tone is stripped away entirely.

What to Avoid

- "You're wrong."
- "That's not my problem."
- "You always do this."
- "Obviously..."
- Replying to all with a complaint

What to Try Instead

- "I see it differently. Here's why."
- "Let me connect you with someone who can help."
- "This has come up a few times. Can we talk about it?"
- Remove "obviously" it sounds dismissive.
- Send a direct message to the person involved.

ACTIVITY 3 | Workplace Behavior Spectrum Sort | Group Activity

Your table will receive a set of scenario cards. Sort each scenario into one of the four categories. Be prepared to explain your reasoning.

SCENARIO CARD 1 — "Just How We Talk"

Setting: Operations / Plant Environment

The Situation

Ray's crew has a long-standing culture of blunt humor — including jokes about age, weight, and background. A newer employee, Devon, joins the shift, laughs along at first, then becomes withdrawn. Devon says: "I'm fine — I just don't always love the jokes. But that's just how things are here, right?"

Discussion Questions

1. Does the crew's intent to "just joke around" change whether this is a problem?
2. Devon is choosing not to say anything. Does that mean the behavior is acceptable?
3. If a coworker sees Devon becoming withdrawn, do they have any responsibility?

SCENARIO CARD 2 — "My Supervisor Is Out to Get Me"

Setting: Office / Administrative Setting

The Situation

Priya has missed two deadlines. Her supervisor Marcus schedules a meeting to review expectations. He is direct and professional, making no personal comments or references to any protected characteristic. After the meeting, Priya tells a coworker: "Marcus is harassing me. Every time I turn around, he's criticizing my work."

Discussion Questions

1. Based on what is described, is this harassment? What is the legal standard?
2. What is the difference between performance management and harassment?
3. Would your answer change if Marcus had a history of treating Priya differently than other employees?
4. What should Priya do if she genuinely believes something is wrong?

SCENARIO CARD 3 — "The Eye Roll"

Setting: Office / Administrative Setting

The Situation

Every time Gabby contributes in a staff meeting, her coworker Dennis sighs audibly and always rolls his eyes. He says nothing out loud. The supervisor continues the meeting without acknowledging it. A colleague tells Gabby, "Don't take it personally. Dennis does that to everyone." Gabby has stopped speaking up in meetings.

Discussion Questions

1. Dennis did not say a single word. Can a nonverbal gesture like an eye roll be a workplace problem?
2. Is this harassment, or something else? What is the distinction?
3. The supervisor saw it and kept going. What responsibility did the supervisor have?
4. "He does it to everyone" — does that make it better or worse?

MODULE 3 | Respectful Workplace, Civility & Inclusion

Activity 3 — Group Discussion Notes:

Module 3: Key Takeaways

1 Respect is behavioral. Observable, measurable, and a daily decision made in every interaction.	2 Communication is the mechanism. Tone, timing, and medium all carry meaning — including in digital communication.	3 Behavior is a spectrum. Small things compound. The dangerous zone is not the obvious end — it's the middle, where things get normalized.

Notes:

MODULE 4 | Social Media & Inappropriate Conduct

MWRD's Social Media Policy applies to all employees on all platforms, including personal accounts used off-duty. Being off the clock does not mean being off the record. If a post is attributable to you as an MWRD employee, the policy applies.

The Core Principle

You are expected to maintain the same standards of professional conduct online that are expected in person. Your MWRD identity does not clock out when you do.

When Social Media Becomes a Workplace Issue

- Criticism of District leadership or operations that is public and attributable to you.
- Photographs of secured or restricted facilities, or disclosure of internal information not approved for public release.
- Content that implies MWRD endorses a personal view or activity.
- Harassment or discriminatory content directed at coworkers.
- Any content that, if seen by a stakeholder, member of the public, or journalist, would reflect negatively on MWRD

Module 4: Key Takeaways

1

Off-duty does not mean off the record.

AP 10.44.0 applies to all platforms and all accounts, including personal accounts used off-duty.

2

A concerning post may signal two issues.

The social media conduct itself, and an underlying unresolved complaint, may both require follow-up.

3

Privacy settings are not protection.

Content can be shared regardless of your settings. Once it exists digitally, it can travel.

Notes:

MODULE 5 | Reporting Concerns & Employee Responsibilities

IMPORTANT: You do not need to be certain that a policy violation occurred before you report. The threshold is concern — not certainty, not proof, not evidence. HR determines whether a violation occurred.

When to Report

Report when you experience or witness:

- Conduct that does not feel right, even if you are unsure of the policy category
- Any adverse change in treatment after a protected activity
- A supervisor who fails to act on conduct they are aware of
- Behavior that makes you or someone else uncomfortable based on a protected characteristic
- Any conduct that may constitute harassment, discrimination, or retaliation

IMPORTANT: Making a false report intentionally is prohibited and subject to discipline. A good-faith report that turns out not to be a violation is NOT a false report.

MODULE 5 | Reporting Concerns & Employee Responsibilities

Complaint Process for Non-Represented Employees | AP 10.15.0

For workplace complaints not related to harassment, discrimination, or retaliation:

Step	Details
Step 1: Immediate Supervisor	Put complaint in writing within 7 calendar days. Supervisor responds in writing within 7 calendar days.
Step 2: Department Head	If unresolved, appeal to Department Head within 7 days of Step 1 decision. Response within 7 calendar days.
Step 3: Director of HR	If still unresolved, appeal to Director of Human Resources within 7 days of Step 2 decision.
Optional: Civil Service Board	Under Personnel Rule 12.01. Final appeal step.

IMPORTANT: AP 10.15.0 is for general workplace complaints. For harassment, discrimination, or retaliation — use AP 10.5.0 and contact HR directly at 312-751-4443.

Confidentiality & Non-Retaliation Protections

Your report will be kept confidential to the greatest extent possible. HR will not broadcast who filed a complaint. If HR needs to share information to conduct a thorough investigation, they may do so — but disclosure is limited to what the investigation requires.

If you experience retaliation after reporting:

- Document the adverse change — date, what happened, who was present
- Report it separately to HR immediately — do not wait to see if it gets better
- Let HR make the connection. Your job is to report the pattern, not to prove it.

MODULE 5 | Reporting Concerns & Employee Responsibilities

ACTIVITY 4 | What Would You Say? | Role Play

THE SCENARIO: "The Reassignment"

You have worked in the same department for three years. Two months ago, you filed an informal concern about a coworker's repeated comments about your accent. The supervisor said they would "look into it." Nothing happened. Last week, you were quietly reassigned from a high-visibility project to a routine administrative task — no explanation given. The coworker was not reassigned. Your performance reviews have been strong.

"I don't know if I'm overreacting. Maybe the reassignment is just a business decision. But the timing feels off. I don't know what to do, and I don't want to make things worse."

Role 1 — The Reporter

Describe what happened in your own words. Be honest about your uncertainty. Push back gently if the Responder tries to minimize. Ask: "But what if it is connected? What are my options?" See if the Responder can help you think through what to do next.

Role 2 — The Responder

Listen first. Validate the Reporter's experience. Name the reporting options, at minimum HR at 312-751-4443. Address the Reporter's fear of making things worse. End with a concrete next step.

Role 3 — The Observer

Watch for what helps and what doesn't. Complete the checklist below. Lead the table debrief after the role play.

You will lead the table debrief when time is called.

OBSERVER DEBRIEF CHECKLIST: Watch for		Observed?	Notes
1	Responder listened before offering a solution	YES / NO
2	Responder validated Reporter's experience without over-diagnosing	YES / NO
3	Responder named HR (312-751-4443) specifically	YES / NO
4	Responder explained that no supervisor approval is needed to report	YES / NO
5	Responder addressed Reporter's fear of making things worse	YES / NO
6	Scene ended with Reporter knowing at least one concrete next step	YES / NO
7	Responder said anything that might discourage the Reporter from reporting (if YES — note it)	YES / NO

MODULE 5 | Reporting Concerns & Employee Responsibilities

Observer Notes:

Module 5: Key Takeaways

1 Concern is the threshold. You do not need proof to report. HR determines whether a violation occurred.	2 Know the numbers. HR Administration: 312-751-4443. Office of Inspector General: 312-751-4444.	3 Know which process applies. AP 10.5.0 for harassment, discrimination, retaliation. AP 10.15.0 for other workplace concerns. When in doubt, call HR.

Notes:

MODULE 6 | Capstone Scenario Lab & Reflection

Purpose

This capstone brings together everything covered today. The scenario requires you to apply policy knowledge, recognize inappropriate behavior, understand reporting options, and identify retaliation — simultaneously, under realistic conditions.

What This Activity Asks You To Do

Activity	Instructions
Part 1: Scenario Reading	Read the scenario individually and silently. Identify policy issues, inappropriate behaviors, and red flags.
Part 2: Reporting Exercise	Complete the reporting worksheet on your own, using only the facts in the scenario. Prepare notes as if you are about to call HR.
Large-Group Debrief	Be prepared to share your reporting approach and table analysis.

Part 1: Capstone Scenario

CAPSTONE SCENARIO — "The Situation on Crew 4"

Setting: MWRD Field Operations. You are an employee on Crew 4.

Background

You work on a field operations crew of eight — a mix of long-tenured and newer hires. Over six weeks, you have noticed tension building on the crew.

Three Weeks Ago

During a crew break, coworkers Darnell and Frank had a heated exchange about a news event. Frank made derogatory comments about a political group. Darnell, who openly identifies with that group, pushed back. Frank has continued making pointed comments and jokes in Darnell's presence in front of the crew. Your supervisor Carmen overheard one comment last week but did not address it.

Two Weeks Ago

A newer coworker, Amara, told you she felt her ideas were not being taken seriously, and that Frank made a comment about her hijab being "a safety concern" during a site walkthrough. Amara said she told Carmen, who said she would look into it. Nothing seems to have happened.

Last Week: Group Text and Public Post

Frank forwarded a meme to a group text including you and several crew members. The meme mocked the political group Darnell identifies with and women who wear religious head coverings. Frank sent it off the clock from his personal device.

Two days later, Frank posted publicly on Facebook: "Some people on this crew can't keep their politics off the truck or their religion off the job site. Pray for the rest of us. #realamericans." Frank's profile lists MWRD as his employer.

Today

Darnell comes to you directly. He says the comments have been going on six weeks, happen in front of the crew, and that he has started requesting different shifts to avoid Frank. He references the group text and Facebook post. He does not want to make a formal complaint — he just wants it to stop.

He also mentions almost in passing that Frank told him last week: "If you go crying to HR about this, everyone on this crew is going to know you can't handle the job."

You now have to decide what to do with this information.

MODULE 6 | Capstone Scenario Lab & Reflection

Crew 4 — What Would You Do? | Reporting Exercise

YOUR TASK: You have decided to report this situation to HR because you are concerned about the escalating environment on the crew and your supervisor's inaction. Write factual, objective notes to prepare for your conversation with HR. Use only the facts in the scenario. Do not speculate, characterize, or editorialize.

Date of Your Notes
Date(s) and Time(s) of Incidents
Location(s)
Names of Employees Involved
Names of Witnesses
What Was Said or Done (use quotation marks for direct statements)
Group Text and Social Media Conduct
Prior Reports to Supervisor (including Amara's report to Carmen)

RETALIATION FLAG — REPORT SEPARATELY

Did any statement or action in this scenario constitute a potential retaliation threat? If yes, describe it below using exact words. Retaliation threats must be reported to HR immediately.

Date / Time / Location of Retaliation Statement
Speaker and Person Targeted
Exact Words (in quotation marks)

(direct, second-hand, etc.)

My Reflection & Personal Commitment

After the debrief, take a few minutes to complete this page. It is yours — you keep it. No one else will see it.

1. ONE SITUATION I WILL LOOK AT DIFFERENTLY

Based on this training, name one situation on your current team that you are going to look at differently after today.

2. ONE THING I WILL DO IN THE NEXT 30 DAYS

Name one specific action you will take to contribute to a more respectful culture on your team.

3. WRITE THE NUMBER — WHERE WILL YOU PUT IT?

Write the HR Employee Relations number somewhere you will see it: 312-751-4443. Where will you put it?
